

Daniel Paul

SAP HR Business Manager for Amey Plc
SIG Chair – Training

Working across the business units Daniel's role is to ensure that SAP in Human Resources is being used efficiently throughout the organisation to meet operational requirements, and to champion the future development of SAP as system capabilities and business needs evolve.

Daniel an engineer by profession has over 27 years experience in Aircraft Maintenance worldwide. Having completed his Masters in Business Studies, changed his profession to SAP and had been a key player in the successful implementation of SAP in the Engineering arm of British Airways. His experience ranges from a Key User to an Implementation Manger, covering Data, Process and People – the three main assets for the SAP solution. Additionally he has been largely involved with Business Process Reengineering, User Role Mapping, and Business Reporting in HR, PM and MM modules.

Achieving an excellent return on investment on SAP HR especially with the Personnel Development Module and using the modules to its full potential among the users in the UK is one of his chief aims.
