

Jeff Mankertz

Royal National Lifeboat Institution

SIG Chair - Maintenance and Service Management

Jeff is central to the life-saving activities of the RNLI, having project managed the opening of four lifeboat stations on the tidal reaches of the Thames, which involved outsourcing the boats, recruiting and training the crew and finding and adapting premises for the stations. He is also responsible for managing the repair and refit of all lifeboats and associated kit across the entire organisation.

Jeff's work with the RNLI led him to become involved in SAP's project management arm, as a prime business user.

Prior to joining the RNLI, Jeff spent 12 years serving in the Royal Navy.
