

SAP UK e-bulletin SAP Community Item – July 05

SAP UK & Ireland User Group Website Launch

The SAP UK & Ireland User Group is pleased to announce the launch of its new website at www.sapusers.org.

The User Group is an organisation set up purely to serve the needs of SAP Users by sharing knowledge, best practice and expertise from around the UK and Ireland. Being an independent organisation, we are operated and managed for the benefit of our members.

We provide meetings and discussion forums in a neutral environment where SAP users can network, exchange experiences, and receive presentations from selected relevant companies.

We firmly believe that a thriving User Group is a great benefit to SAP. Every successful organisation needs to listen to its customers and our members have face-to-face access to SAP consultants and a genuine input into product development.

The SAP UK & Ireland User Group provides its members with a forum that allows the sharing of best practice on configuring and maintaining SAP systems.

We have created the website as part of the development of our organisation, and in response to the many comments from our members.

We believe the facilities included in the site will help us to improve communications with our members and give access to better information, and it is also a platform to provide services such as discussion forums and event booking in an efficient and cost-effective way.

Not already a member?

Any company that is a licensed user of SAP software can join the User Group.

We are an open organisation, which believes that all SAP users can benefit by sharing our expertise and experience with one another.

The SAP UK and Ireland User Group offers a free trial membership scheme that allows organisations thinking of joining to attend one event and experience various members only sections of our website free of charge.

In our experience, once organisations have seen the benefits of joining at first hand, they are keen to sign up for more.

SAP services and products are becoming ever more sophisticated, thanks not only to technology and to the research conducted by SAP itself, but also to the efforts of members of organisations like ours who are increasingly knowledgeable in this field.

By joining the SAP UK and Ireland User Group, your organisation will not only gain a wealth of knowledge about how it can improve its performance, but will be able to play its part in shaping the technology of the future.

For further details please visit our website at www.sapusers.org.