SAP is constantly innovating and changing - and that brings great opportunity to your business. At the same time, these software changes can introduce risk to your company's business processes if they are not managed effectively. As you embrace innovation - whether it's SAP Fiori, SAP HANA, HTML5, cloud apps, or other technologies - you need a method to ensure end-to-end quality of your most critical business processes. Business process validation offers accelerated automated testing and quality assurance. It also allows companies to replace manual processes, shorten project timelines and decrease technology risk – no matter the technologies or applications in your complex landscape. Join us to learn how to achieve these benefits for your organization. | Julian Senn
